Engage:

What challenges does your project address? Our challenge is to address food insecurity in our community. This falls under zero hunger and good health and well-being. Our community is on the westside of Atlanta, Ga. It is recognized as a food desert the closest supermarket is over 5 miles away.

Why did your team select this topic or challenge? We chose zero hunger and good health and well-being because it affects us daily but also its an area of focus for our school.

How is it a real-world problem or concern? Food insecurity and food deserts are issues that affect many impoverished areas.

Investigation:

We determined that one of the ways to ease the trouble of food insecurity is to be able to grow our own food. So we have grown various herbs indoors to simulate some of the conditions which people in our community can control.

Action:

- We learned a lot from our growth. We plan to engage the community in home gardening through how-to videos and podcasts in order to guide the community through the growing process as best as possible. We chose indoor gardening because a lot of the people in our community live in apartments. We plan to begin production and advertisement once our equipment is completely set up.
